

Colombia Missionary Institute

Problem The mission institute in Colombia has trained missionary candidates from Colombia and other South American countries. But using only two buildings has allowed little discipling outside of the classroom because the faculty and staff live in rented facilities. This has limited the training possibilities and the perceived value of the training by the Colombian churches.

Solution Remodel the two existing buildings and purchase and remodel a third. The additional space will be used for housing for students and teachers as well as classroom, library, office, and computer room space. The new facilities will allow more one-on-one discipleship with students and help attract prospective students from both the Latin American churches as well as some of the surrounding countries.

Benefit You can partner with Colombian churches and NTM missionaries to help equip Latin Americans to expand the reach of the Gospel.

Total Cost $273,000

Remodel the two existing buildings and purchase and remodel a third.

Phase 1: Remodel existing house to be used as the training center: $55,000.

Phase 2: Remodel house for living quarters for students and teachers: $50,000.

Phase 3: Purchase and remodel house for additional living quarters: $168,000.
