

Interface Roofing Project

Campus improvements increase security and prevent water damage to buildings.

Through the years more than 1,000 students have studied missions at the Interface campus located in the highlands of Papua New Guinea. During their weeks of study and exposure they make life-long commitments based on hands-on experience, and many become career missionaries. Now the aging roofs that have sheltered the students need to be replaced. Reroofing is critical to the ongoing use of the structures.

Twenty-four student cabins have already been reroofed, but funds are needed to replace old roofing on the rest of the buildings.

Total Estimated Cost $16,000

You can be involved in challenging students to plant churches among unevangelized tribal people. Your gift will ensure a secure, dry place of study and exposure to the world of missions.
